Connecting the Digital Ecosystem

The International Institute of Communications (IIC) is the policy platform for the digital ecosystem.

Through intellectually enriching discussions, deep policy expertise, and strong convening power, the IIC helps identify regulatory and policy frameworks that maximise societal benefit while supporting innovation and investment.

The IIC is a global, trusted, independent, and non-political forum.

Our themes

We facilitate international dialogue

Operating under the Chatham House Rule, the IIC fosters a trusted neutral environment that encourages open and candid dialogue.

Our members make this important dialogue possible.
Together, we bring industry and regulators together to shape the future of the digital ecosystem.

You will be in good company.

IIC Programme of meetings

Our programme promotes knowledge sharing, best practice, and learning, with members playing an active role in shaping topics and speakers.

International Programme

Communications Policy & Regulation Week brings together the IIC's flagship events: the International Regulators Forum (IRF), Small Nations Regulators Forum (SNRF), and Annual Conference.

Rotating between leading cities around the world each year.

With a presence spanning 110 countries, we are proud to be a truly international organisation.

Regional Programme

The six Digital Communications & Media Forums (DCM Forum) include:

Asia DCM Forum (includes an RRF)

European DCM Forum

LatAm & Caribbean DCM Forum (includes an RRF)

Central Eastern European DCM Forum

North America DCM Forum

An additional DCM Forum that rotates annually between key locations around the world

*RRF - Regional Regulators Forums, exclusive to regulator members only

International Institute of Communications
